

go&do

Buddhist film series begins Friday

First movie in four-part series at Battle Mountain High School in Edwards

Daily staff report

NEWSROOM@VAILDAILY.COM

Local Buddhist group Bodhimarga is presenting a series of four films every fourth Friday starting this Friday at the Battle Mountain High School Auditorium at 7 p.m. The films are free to the public, but donations are appreciated.

The first movie in the series is the award-winning "Spring, Summer, Fall, Winter... and Spring" by South Korean director, Ki-duk Kim. This visually exquisite and contemplative film follows the teachings of an old Buddhist monk to his young student as he passes through the seasons of his life.

Following the film, Venerable Tenzin Priyadarshi will lead a question and answer session.

Movie critic Jay Antani described the movie as "a mystical primer on

SPECIAL TO THE DAILY
Kim Ki-Duk plays the part of an adult monk in "Spring, Summer, Fall, Winter ... and Spring."

Buddhist spirituality, and an immediately absorbing story about lessons that we all must grapple with, regardless of faith and culture."

Bodhimarga is a nondenomina-tional community under the spiritual direction of Priyadarshi, dedicated to the study of Buddhadharma. For additional information visit www.bodhimarga.org.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR